Texas Campus Sniper Kills At Least 4

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A sniper killed at least four persons today with shots from a high-powered rifle from the 26th floor of the University of Texas tower.

Ben Tobias, administrator of the Breckinridge Hospital, said four victims brought there were dead—and there might be six dead.

He said a total of 13 persons shot by the sniper had been brought to the hospital.

One of the critically wounded was a policeman. Other victims included an Associated Press newsmen, a small boy and a girl student.

The campus became a battleground as officers ringing the tower sought to pick off the sniper with high-powered rifles equipped with telescopic sights.

Fire trucks were rushed to the scene and officers said an attempt would be made to flush out the sniper with jets of water.

Associated Press newsmen Robert Heard was shot in the arm by a sniper as he followed two Texas Rangers to an open area near the tower.

"He got me!" Ernest Stromberger of the Dallas Times Herald said Heard yelled. He was taken to a hospital.

"Different sounds came from the building—like a pistol and rifle and then we heard the big one," said Mrs. Susan Bradshaw, a university employee who was walking near the tower when the shooting occurred.

"Everybody was running, shouting someone has been shot. I'm scared," she said.

University police said half an hour after the first report: "The man is still up there, still shooting. We don't know how many have been shot."

One girl felled by a bullet was dragged behind a cement stairway by several men after she was wounded. Shots from the tower prevented others from reaching her.

The campus was almost deserted when the firing began about noon.

Small groups of people ran out of buildings when the first shots were fired, then ducked back to safety as the bullets kept coming from the tower.

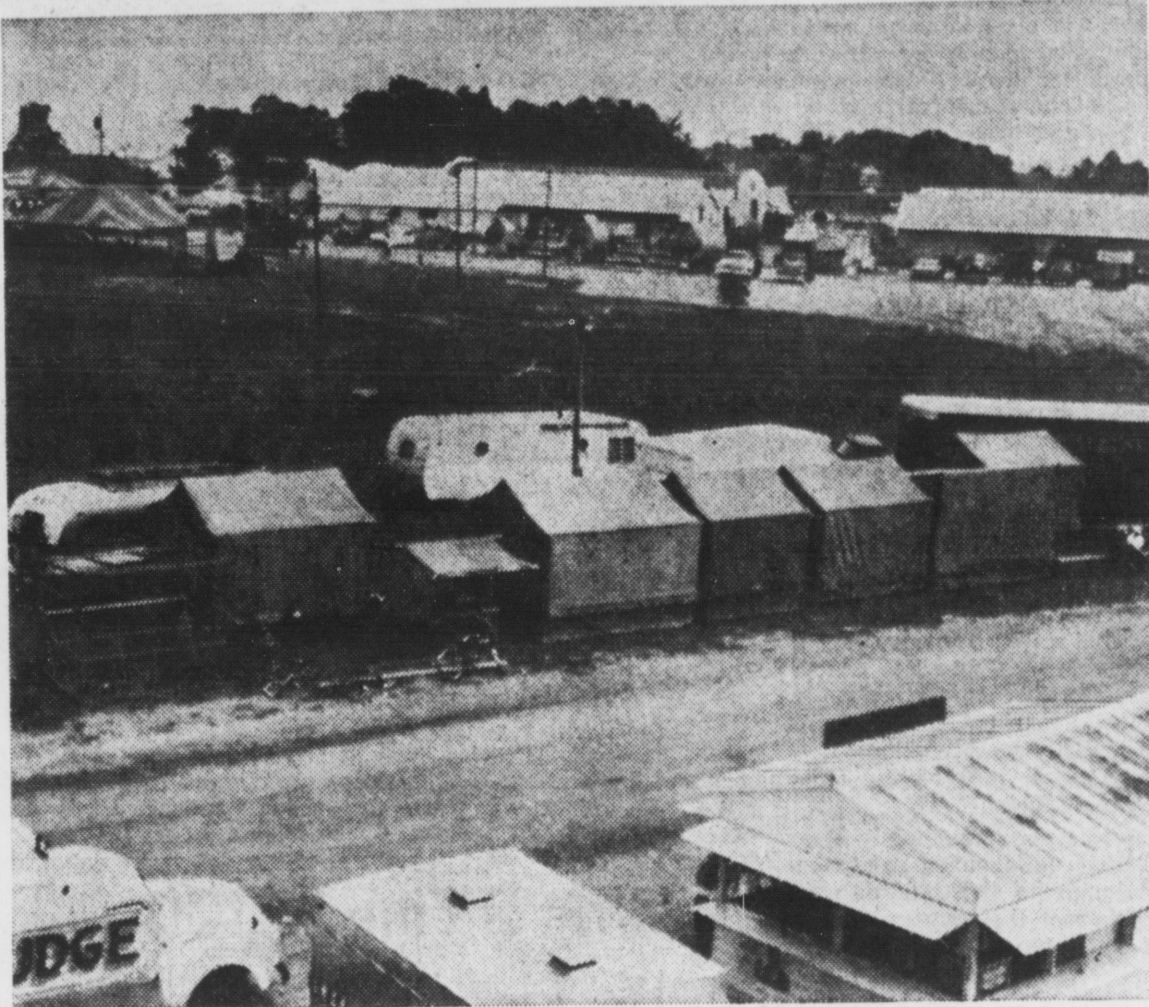

Some Gunman Holds Up 3 Service Stations

CINCINNATI (AP)—A gunman participated in three separate service station holdups in the Cincinnati area Sunday night and police believe the same man may have been involved in all of them.

The man got about $108 from Paul Dudley at a Cincinnati Soho station. The loot taken from Charles Kohn at a Marathon station here was $71 and an undetermined amount of money was taken from Charles Williams at a Star station in Covington, Ky.

B52s Blast Cong Camp; Big Cache Of Ammo Found

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—High-flying U.S. B52 bombers plastered a Viet Cong base camp near Saigon today and ground troops sweeping in after the raid uncovered a big cache of arms and ammunition.

The eight-engine giants dropped their bombs 25 miles northwest of Saigon shortly after dawn. The thunderous explosions could be heard in the capital.

Two hours later, helicopters poured infantrymen of the U.S. 25th Division into the area. They found 90,000 rounds of ammunition, mines, booby traps and submachine guns but no enemy bodies. Two U.S. helicopters were hit by ground fire after landing the troops but were repaired and flown out without casualties.

A U.S. Air Force F104 Starfighter was shot down 40 miles north of Hanoi by ground fire this afternoon, a U.S. Air Force spokesman announced.

The Starfighter was on an escort mission, the spokesman said. The pilot is reported missing.

Ground fighting throughout South Viet Nam was generally light except in the central highlands where other troops of the 25th Division came under heavy mortar and automatic weapons attack at dawn.

Helicopters brought reinforcements into the area, 20 miles southwest of Pleiku city. The ground troops, supported by air strike and artillery, reported killing 26 North Vietnamese soldiers while taking light casualties.

In the intensified air war over North Viet Nam, U.S. planes flew 97 missions Sunday, hitting at nine oil storage areas including a fuel dump 13 miles southwest of Hanoi.

Pilots claimed destruction or damage to 12 bridges, 72 cargo barges, 41 trucks and five aircraft sites. They also touched off numerous secondary explosions and fires, a spokesman said.

Two U.S. planes were lost in the raids. An Air Force RF101 Voodoo reconnaissance plane disappeared on a mission northeast of Hanoi. The pilot is missing.

An Air Force A1E Skyraider was shot down by ground fire. The pilot was rescued. They brought reported American aircraft losses over North Viet Nam to 316.

During the forays over North Viet Nam Sunday, American pilots sighted three Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles. Two were spotted north of Hanoi and the other near Vinh. The U.S. command did not disclose whether any scored hits.

U.S. pilots flew 477 sorties over South Viet Nam Sunday and claimed destruction or damage to 561 enemy fortifications, structures and sampans. South Vietnamese pilots flew 130 sorties.

The U.S. command acknowledged that casualties to American Marines and South Vietnamese troops in Operation Hastings were moderate. Previously, casualties in this heavy action near the demilitarized zone had been termed light.

There has been no heavy contact with the North Vietnamese in Operation Hastings for nearly a week. In two weeks of heavy fighting before that the combined Marine-Vietnamese force reported killing 827 North Vietnamese troops from the 324B Division.

Two teams of the International Control Commission began investigating violations of the demilitarized zone after two successive days of B52 raids on positions inside the six-mile-wide strip at the 17th Parallel. American officials said the eight-engine bombers were called in from Guam because the North Vietnamese were massing troops in the buffer zone created by the 1954 Geneva armistice agreement.

Since the U.S. command openly acknowledged the raids, the ICC probe will center on South Viet Nam's charge that North Viet Nam is sending troops through the zone.

Pakistan Atomic Bomb Plans Worry Indians

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Members of Parliament pressed Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today to relax India's ban on atomic weapons because of newspaper reports that Pakistan will set off an A-bomb in 1968 with Red China's help.

Mrs. Gandhi expressed "concern and distress" over the reports, but added: "Even if China explodes a bomb in East Pakistan, it will be China's bomb, not Pakistan's, and I do not think Pakistan can so quickly acquire the know-how to explode its own bomb."

Congress May Force End to Airline Strike

Air Passengers Plagued By Fresh Frustrations

NEW YORK (AP)—The vote by union machinists not to accept the proposed settlement of their strike against five airlines has heaped frustration upon frustration for scores of thousands of persons who had hoped to be airborne soon.

After being grounded for more than three weeks, travelers had expected to take off — many of them as early as today.

Hopes were high after President Johnson's announcement Friday night that the airlines and the leadership of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists had reached a tentative settlement.

Airlines accepted many thousands of reservations. The bubble burst Sunday when the machinists rejected the settlement.

Mass cancellations of reservations resulted. Disappointment also was keen for the airlines, which are suffering heavy losses, and for many thousands of furloughed airlines employees.

Resort areas — whose patrons are carried mostly by planes — went back into their gloom.

Frank Henry, president of the Greater Miami Hotel Association, said: "This is heaping insult over injury."

Lew Price, director of the Miami-Metro News Bureau, said city and county officials planned to place ads in Eastern, Midwestern and Southern newspapers in an attempt to lure motoring tourists.

Many people had to make another change in their vacation or business trip plans — or cancel them outright — because of the strike against Trans World, United, Eastern, National and Northwest airlines which is 25 days old.

TWA said in New York that it was uncertain what to do about 121,000 reservations the airline had accepted since Saturday, when it appeared that the strike would end by today.

"It is particularly unfortunate," TWA said, "that we will be unable to accommodate the backlog of approximately 16,000 Americans stranded in Europe due to the strike."

"We sincerely regret the continued inconvenience to our passengers which will result."

A spokesman for Eastern Air Lines in New York said it had alerted thousands of employees not to report for work Sunday night after it learned of the strike settlement rejection. The spokesman said Eastern had been "geared to starting operating at 100 per cent" today.

Eastern said the line had booked 30,000 persons for today, and since Friday had accepted more than 100,000 reservations for future dates.

United Air Lines' New York reservations office reported booking more than 3,000 passengers for today.

Commissioners from both counties were scheduled to meet at noon today for what might be the final session on the combined venture. The Pickaway solons said chances of continuing a joint program are slim.

The commissioners from both counties agreed earlier that the combined effort would be dissolved Aug. 1, unless new developments seemed imminent.

Selection of a suitable site has been the primary problem confronting the two governing bodies.

According to Pickaways commissioners, the only alternative now seems to be for the county "to strike out on its own" in quest of an airport.

This also appears to be the thinking in Ross, where the City of Chillicothe has advanced a proposal to secure a facility of its own.

COMMISSION Chairman

Dem Caravan To Hit Two Ohio Districts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr., Democratic nominee for governor, and fellow candidates for statewide offices launch an early election campaign trip Tuesday through southeast Ohio.

They will be joined on the motor caravan by local candidates at a series of 21 stops for speeches during the three-day tour.

Batavia in Clermont County is the jumping-off point following a breakfast. Other first-day stops in the 6th Congressional District include:

Georgetown, Brown County; West Union, Adams County; Portsmouth, Scioto County; Waverly, Pike County; Hillsboro, Highland County, and Washington Court House, Fayette County.

Starting from Circleville on Wednesday, the tour will swing into Chillicothe to complete visits to county courthouses in 6th District and swing into the 10th District with the first stop in Logan, Hocking County.

The caravan will set out again Thursday with the windup in Lancaster. Weekly tours in other areas will follow.

25 Persons Aboard Missing Excursion Boat

FALMOUTH, England (AP)—An excursion boat with 25 passengers aboard was reported missing today off the Cornish coast.

The 45-foot motor cruiser Darlin left Fowey Sunday afternoon for Falmouth but failed to arrive. Coast Guard lifeboats and helicopters went out to search.

Union Rejects Fat Contract

Benefits Now Is Chief Demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the machinists union told Congress today that the only way to get striking airline mechanics to agree to a new contract is to make wage and fringe benefits effective immediately rather than in stages.

Union President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller gave this view at an informal session of the House Labor Committee, as Congress, once again, took the lead in efforts to end the 25-day strike against five major airlines. At the same hearing an industry spokesman called on Congress to impose a solution in the dispute.

While Siemiller and William J. Curtin, chairman of the industry negotiating team, appeared together before the House committee, the Senate Labor Committee met to consider bills aimed at forcing the strikers to return to work.

The union rank and file overwhelmingly rejected a White House engineered settlement offer in voting across the nation Sunday.

Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said his group had reached tentative agreement on a proposal to allow President Johnson to declare a national emergency and order the strikers back to work.

Senate Democratic Leader, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., predicted prompt Senate action but indicated it might take most of this week to move emergency legislation through Congress.

"There must be a law to resolve this dispute and restore the lines to action," Curtin said. "Regrettably, it must also be a law for final settlement of this dispute because of the irresponsibility that has been shown."

Siemiller told the committee, "We did everything possible to expedite what we hoped would be ratification. . . The turnaround was a great disappointment to myself. I went on record on the air from the White House and in telegram to locals over the country recommending the solution."

The session to which the two leading negotiators in the airline dispute were called was described by Chairman Adam Clayton Powell Jr., D-N.Y., of (Continued on Page 2)

Prayers, Not Parades, Urged by Viet Veteran

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — "I am grateful for the honors today," Col. Hal G. Moore Jr. told the hundreds gathered to honor him and other Viet Nam veterans. "But I am more grateful for the prayers you gave my men and me while we were in Viet Nam."

"Please keep praying for the ones who still are there and the ones who have fallen. God bless them all."

Moore then asked the 650 persons at the civic reception Sunday for a minute of silent prayer.

The silence was in contrast to the parade and other celebrations the citizens of Bardstown had planned to honor Moore, winner of the Distinguished Service Cross for valor in Viet Nam.

The festivities were planned when Moore, a Bardstown native, brought his wife and five children home to visit his widowed mother. Included in the plans was a "Hal Moore Night" at a local theatrical pageant, the Stephen Foster story, which honors another son of Bardstown.

The colonel said no. But he told officials he approved of a reception in honor of all area veterans of Viet Nam and families who had lost a relative there.

Army Spec. 4 Michael Davenport of Greensburg, Ky., was one of those honored. He was Moore's driver and radio man for nine months in Viet Nam.

Davenport said the revised program was typical of Col. Moore.

"He never wanted anything his men couldn't have, too," Davenport said. "He's just the greatest I've ever served under."

Davenport drove 100 miles to attend the reception. "I would have traveled a lot farther to honor this man. He took risks he didn't have to to inspire the men. And he did, too."

Davenport returned four days after Moore in November. Another Bardstown veteran who served under Moore, Spec. 4 Raymond Ford, died in action in February. At the reception Moore took his mother, Bertha Ford aside and told her he is proud of her son.

"It was his duty and he wanted to serve," the mother said.

Congress May Force End to Airline Strike

Air Passengers Plagued By Fresh Frustrations

NEW YORK (AP)—The vote by union machinists not to accept the proposed settlement of their strike against five airlines has heaped frustration upon frustration for scores of thousands of persons who had hoped to be airborne soon.

After being grounded for more than three weeks, travelers had expected to take off — many of them as early as today.

Hopes were high after President Johnson's announcement Friday night that the airlines and the leadership of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists had reached a tentative settlement.

Airlines accepted many thousands of reservations. The bubble burst Sunday when the machinists rejected the settlement.

Mass cancellations of reservations resulted.

Disappointment also was keen for the airlines, which are suffering heavy losses, and for many thousands of furloughed airlines employees.

Resort areas — whose patrons are carried mostly by planes — went back into their gloom.

Frank Henry, president of the Greater Miami News Bureau, said: "This is heaping insult over injury."

Lew Price, director of the Miami-Metro News Bureau, said city and county officials planned to place ads in Eastern, Midwestern and Southern newspapers in an attempt to lure motoring tourists.

Many people had to make another change in their vacation or business trip plans — or cancel them outright — because of the strike against Trans World, United, Eastern, National and Northwest airlines which is 25 days old.

TWA said in New York that it was uncertain what to do about 121,000 reservations the airline had accepted since Saturday, when it appeared that the strike would end by today.

"It is particularly unfortunate," TWA said, "that we will be unable to accommodate the backlog of approximately 16,000 Americans stranded in Europe due to the strike."

"We sincerely regret the continued inconvenience to our passengers which will result."

A spokesman for Eastern Air Lines in New York said it had alerted thousands of employees not to report for work Sunday night after it learned of the strike settlement rejection. The spokesman said Eastern had been "geared to starting operation at 100 per cent" today.

Eastern said the line had booked 30,000 persons for today, and since Friday had accepted more than 100,000 reservations for future dates.

United Air Lines' New York reservations office reported booking more than 3,000 passengers for today.

Lloyd Melvin said he expects the Ross solons will detach themselves from the joint program today. But he indicated efforts will continue toward exploring sites in Pickaway County.

A site south of here, in the vicinity of Routes 23 and 361, initially appeared suitable to both counties. However, the location was later abandoned on the grounds of estimated high costs of grading, after several property owners in the area objected.

A joint airport action committee, composed of Pickaway and Ross representatives, expended considerable time and effort in studying sites in both counties.

In other business today, the Pickaway lawmakers approved a request to place four-way stop signs at the Jefferson - Monticello intersection in Jefferson Subdivision. The proposal was submitted by the Pickaway Township Board of Trustees.

According to the agreement, the trustees will furnish and erect the traffic signs.

A contract with Fayette Memorial Hospital in Washington C. H. calling for treatment of indigent patients from Pickaway County was renewed. The rate was set at $29.35 per patient day.

Union Rejects Fat Contract

Benefits Now Is Chief Demand

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of the machinists union told Congress today that the only way to get striking airline mechanics to agree to a new contract is to make wage and fringe benefits effective immediately rather than in stages.

Union President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller gave this view at an informal session of the House Labor Committee, as Congress, once again, took the lead in efforts to end the 25-day strike against five major airlines. At the same hearing an industry spokesman called on Congress to impose a solution in the dispute.

While Siemiller and William J. Curtin, chairman of the industry negotiating team, appeared together before the House committee, the Senate Labor Committee met to consider bills aimed at forcing the strikers to return to work.

The union rank and file overwhelmingly rejected a White House engineered settlement offer in voting across the nation Sunday.

Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said his group had reached tentative agreement on a proposal to allow President Johnson to declare a national emergency and order the strikers back to work.

Senate Democratic Leader, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., predicted prompt Senate action but indicated it might take most of this week to move emergency legislation through Congress.

"There must be a law to resolve this dispute and restore the lines to action," Curtin said. "Regrettably, it must also be a law for final settlement of this dispute because of the irresponsibility that has been shown."

Siemiller told the committee, "We did everything possible to expedite what we hoped would be ratification. . . . The turnaround was a great disappointment to myself. I went on record on the air from the White House and in telegram to locals over the country recommending the solution."

The session to which the two leading negotiators in the airline dispute were called was described by Chairman Adam Clayton Powell Jr., D-N.Y., of

Catholic Psychiatrist Finds Rhythm Method Is Harmful

NEW YORK (AP)—A leading Roman Catholic psychiatrist, who had sought evidence to support the rhythm method of birth control, today reported findings directly to the contrary—that it is a poor method.

"I must conclude that the use of rhythm is productive of serious psychological harm," said Dr. John R. Cavanagh, a professor in the Theology School of the Catholic University of America.

Dr. Cavanagh, who is a member of the birth control study commission named by Pope Paul VI, reports his findings from a survey in the August issue of Marriage magazine.

Based on replies to a questionnaire from 2,000 "successful users" of the rhythm method, Dr. Cavanagh concludes that its use deprives "a woman of the conjugal act during the time of her greatest desire" and thus "causes severe frustration in many couples."

Furthermore, he said, "disagreement over its use and quarrels over its failures cause marital discord" and "such disharmony with its attending symptoms may cause psychic damage to the offspring."

The survey was originated last fall by Dr. Cavanagh.

The rhythm method requires abstinence from sexual intercourse during a woman's fertile period. The Church, so far, has disapproved contraceptive means.

The pontifical commission reported to Pope Paul in June, with its contents and reaction.

Reds To Enter Polls

the House Labor Committee as "not a formal hearing."

He named a special eight-man subcommittee equally divided by party and headed jointly by himself and Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio. This group, he said, will meet in closed session later and decide whether the committee itself should pursue the matter any further.

The machinists who grounded 60 per cent of the nation's air traffic threw a monkey wrench into the White House agreement Sunday by rejecting it in secret balloting, 17,251 to 6,587.

Despite the big wage and fringe benefit gains totaling 72 cents an hour spread over a three-year contract, the strikers apparently decided it was too little and too late. Many said they wanted the full benefits right now without waiting for the second and third year of the contract. Others said they didn't get a better pension plan or a cost of living escalator clause.

"This will be the last strike in this industry," growled one 20-year veteran of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists in predicting Congress would land on the union with both feet.

It was not immediately clear whether the Senate would revive plans to give Johnson power to order the strikers back to work, or have Congress do the politically unpopular job itself.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World airlines repudiated Congress, Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increase—nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

Reds To Enter Polls

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover predicts that the U. S. Communist Party will field "independent" candidates in the November elections and will attempt to promote a class revolt.

the House Labor Committee as "not a formal hearing."

He named a special eight-man subcommittee equally divided by party and headed jointly by himself and Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio. This group, he said, will meet in closed session later and decide whether the committee itself should pursue the matter any further.

The machinists who grounded 60 per cent of the nation's air traffic threw a monkey wrench into the White House agreement Sunday by rejecting it in secret balloting, 17,251 to 6,587.

Despite the big wage and fringe benefit gains totaling 72 cents an hour spread over a three-year contract, the strikers apparently decided it was too little and too late. Many said they wanted the full benefits right now without waiting for the second and third year of the contract. Others said they didn't get a better pension plan or a cost of living escalator clause.

"This will be the last strike in this industry," growled one 20-year veteran of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists in predicting Congress would land on the union with both feet.

It was not immediately clear whether the Senate would revive plans to give Johnson power to order the strikers back to work, or have Congress do the politically unpopular job itself.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World airlines repudiated Congress, Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes, turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increase—nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The term was used by the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation to Gov. James A. Rhodes in a quarterly report of employment and unemployment in 22 counties.

Willard P. Dudley, bureau administrator, said the unemployment rate for the 22 counties surveyed, comparing February with June 1966, was 3.8 per cent of the civilian labor force, a reduction of 0.7 per cent, with an unemployment figure of 27,600 from the civilian labor force of 732,775.

He said that of the 705,175 persons employed, the most dramatic change in both percentage of employment and unemployment, was Adams County, where the unemployment rate was reduced 10.8 per cent from 16.3 per cent to 5.5 per cent, or from 925 to 325 persons.

Bill Seeks Increase in SS Benefits

Congressman William H. Harsha, Ohio 6th District, today introduced a bill calling for an automatic cost-of-living increase in social security benefits.

The Ohio lawmaker said that, "Americans living on fixed incomes and pensions are hurt most by the smothering burden of inflation forced upon them by the Johnson Administration's wild spending."

"The meager benefits derived from social security payments decrease in proportion to the increase in the cost of living and while the government's own figures admit the cost of living has increased more than 8 per cent in the last six years, as a practical matter, the cost of living has exceeded this figure," Harsha charged.

"For that reason, I have introduced a bill which would automatically increase social security benefits whenever the cost of living rises by 3 per cent or more. This legislation would eliminate the delays in providing this needed relief to the people who need it the most and would involve no increase in costs as a level percentage of payroll since it is correlated to increases in the consumer price index," the Ohio lawmaker said.

"There is an urgent need for such a change in the law. Why should aged pensioners continue to suffer while runaway inflation further destroys the purchasing power of the pension dollar? Congress should provide for this automatic offset against the hardship of inflation," Harsha concluded.

Although the gross national product rose to a new record annual rate of $732 billion in the second quarter, the rate of gain was slower than that of the first three months.

In the April-June period the GPN was up by $10.8 billion compared to the first quarter's rise of $16.8 billion. Furthermore, two-fifths of the $10.8 billion gain represented higher prices.

Increased withholding of Federal income taxes and larger bites out of pay envelopes for Social Security apparently have had the desired effect of curbing the buying boom. According to the Commerce Department, a "marked tempering" in consumer spending was the chief reason for the slower growth of the GPN in the second quarter. The annual rate of new car sales alone dropped by $3 billion in the three-month period.

But the slack in consumer spending seems to have been taken up by increased defense spending which promises to become the key factor in the outlook for business for the rest of the year. A sharp increase in defense spending can, of course, be as dangerously inflationary as unrestrained consumer demand.

Both Teens, Adults Strum Guitar

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The guitar is no longer simply a teen-age weapon. At least a million adults are now taking evening courses in how to play the instrument, and guitars have become a $150 million year industry.

California now claims it produces 25 per cent of America's table food—and this doesn't even include Hollywood's corn output.

Talking about your fat can help you get rid of it. Researchers found that group discussions among dieters did more than drug therapy to cause them to lose weight.

Does your household pet do anything to earn his keep? Well, why not get him on a payroll? Last year 19,540 animals and birds were hired to act in television and the movies.

In 1860, the cost for Abraham Lincoln's national election campaign was $100,000, probably the biggest political bargain in history.

Little-noticed milestones: Grape has now passed strawberry as the nation's favorite flavor in jam.

If a bee stings you, you can be sure it isn't a queen bee. Queen bees don't waste their stings on commoners. All they ever sing is another queen bee.

The large economy size: To 6-foot-6 Anna Bates of Nova Scotia was born in 1879 the largest baby on record—a bouncing lad of 23 1/2 pounds. The proud papa, 6-foot 8, weighed 470 pounds.

It is estimated that 55 men will die of cancer in 1966 for every 35 female victims. One reason is that women are more alert to the disease, and seek treatment sooner.

Dentists foresee tooth banks in the future. Instead of filling teeth, they'll simply plant live toothbuds in your jaws and let you grow your own new biscus-pids.

Worth remembering: "We've never had it so good—nor taken away from us so fast."

History lesson: Can you name the two times when, because of untimely deaths, the United States had three presidents within a single calendar year? They were in 1841 when Martin van Buren, William Henry Harrison and John Tyler served; and in 1881 when Ruth-erford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield and Chester A. Arthur held office.

It was Wilson Mizner who observed, "The man who won't lend money isn't going to have many friends—or need them."

Stride of 30 Inches

By John Chamberlain

Every year, in Aspen, Colorado, the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies presents a tax-free award of $30,000 to "that individual anywhere in the world judged to have made the greatest contribution to the advancement of the humanities." Last year the prize went to Martha Graham, the sustaining spirit of the American modern dance.

This year the award went to Constantinos Doxiadis, a Greek architect whose ideas, insofar as they have been made public in this country, are needed like water in Sahara.

At home in Greece and throughout the neighboring Middle East Dr. Doxiadis is a re-builder of whole cities: he "renewed" fabled Baghdad, and he has used Ford Foundation and International Bank of Reconstruction and Development funds to carry through great national housing projects in Pakistan, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan. What is interesting about Dr. Doxiadis's ideas is that he tries to rebuild his communities to conform to distances that man can cover on foot in half an hour. His basic measurement is thirty inches, which is roughly the average person's stride. Looking about the urban shambles of the West, Dr. Doxiadis finds them chaotic because they try simultaneously to satisfy four quarrelling masters — i.e., man, the automobile, the airplane and the rocket. No day-to-day living "synthesis" is possible amid such a jumble of incompatible speeds. So, under the name of the science of "Ekistics," which he has founded, Dr. Doxiadis is trying to rescue man as worker, shopper, theater-goer, diner-out and cafe-habitue from the tyranny of subway and taxicab and commuter harassments and carbon monoxide fumes.

This is easier said than done but Dr. Doxiadis has solved his problem, at least from the standpoint of theory, by rejecting the western idea of a city built on concentric circles. In business and civil enterprises, while the outer circles are given over to residential areas, with slums inevitably taking over the area immediately surrounding the business blocks. To get away from the construction imposed by circular growth, Dr. Doxiadis plans call for a city named "Dynapolis" that can "change through time. There is no real 'down town' in 'Dynapolis.' The business and civic area of this perhaps all-too-mythical metropolis is built along a projected axis which can widen as it grows, letting residential and factory areas spring up on either side of the projection. Thus everybody in "Dynapolis" can live within walking distance of his job, his shops and his amusements and cultural attractions.

Dr. Doxiadis is obviously not going to do an instantaneous job of remaking New York, which has grown up around the core island of Manhattan, nor is he going to "project an axis" for San Francisco, which is stuck on a peninsula. Moreover, cities built along lake and river fronts have their own natural constrictions. But with the population explosion the world has reached the threshold of the "new town" era. New communities must be built everywhere from scratch. Hence the value of proclaiming the existence of Dr. Doxiadis from Aspen, whose high beacon is practically on the North American continental divide.

The nice thing about the Aspen Institute of Humanistic Studies, which is honoring Dr. Doxiadis over this week-end is its recognition that genius does not necessarily emerge from the "official" world that is attested by Ph.D. degrees and traditional "academies." Dr. Doxiadis did not exactly come from nowhere, but he did come from the improbable Bulgarian town (now Greece) of Stenimachos, where he was born amid the Balkan War embroilments of 1913. His father, a pediatrician, belonged to a Greek underground group which was bent on "liberating" its region of Bulgaria. Minus the father, who was imprisoned and condemned to death, the Doxiadis family fled to Athens at the outbreak of World War I. The father escaped later, to become Minister of Refugees in Greece. Two great wars caused so much devastation in Dr. Doxiadis's part of the world that he became a city planner almost in spite of himself. He felt he had to house those refugees who were his father's official consideration.

At home in Greece Dr. Doxiadis heads the Athens Technological Institute. Lady Bird Johnson, who wants to beautify America, had better find out something about the marriage of technology and beauty in modern Greece.

How can a layman distinguish between heat exhaustion and a heat stroke? What should be done about them?

In an emergency the function of the layman is to render help only until a physician or some trained person can take charge. Don't do too much, to quickly and too heroically.

Heat exhaustion is the less serious of these two conditions. The general appearance of the heat exhausted person resembles an ordinary fainting spell. He may appear pale and clammy. The pulse may be very rapid and the breathing very shallow.

The treatment for this is to keep the head low after carrying the victim to a cool place. A whiff of aromatic spirits of ammonia is beneficial. When he is able to swallow, salt dissolved in water replaces his depleted stores. Under no circumstances should alcohol be forced down his throat.

A heat stroke, or sun stroke, is a more serious condition than heat exhaustion. The victim of heat stroke is usually flushed and hot. The skin is very dry and the temperature suddenly rises even as high as 105 degrees. This is a serious emergency.

The victim should be covered with ice packs or placed in a tub of cold water. Every ingenious device for lowering the temperature should be used. Fans, wet sheets and even rectal irrigations of ice water can help lower the fever. Alcohol, of course, is forbidden even after there is apparent recovery from collapse.

It is surprising how often brandy is misused as emergency treatment for these conditions.

The layman, concerned about the actual treatment, should seek to get all patients, in all emergencies, to a hospital or to a doctor.

What are the differences between acute, "sub-acute" and chronic illnesses?

An acute illness is one that happens suddenly, is treated early and responds readily to treatment. When an acute condition is cured there is no special reason why it should once more occur.

NEW YORK (AP)—Faster transit could add billions to the economy in the years just ahead. City after city, and region after region, are involved in direct spending for speedy moving of very large crowds in metropolitan areas. Some projects are already under way, and still more are in the planning and research stages.

Beyond this, supplying the equipment for all the new commuter transit systems, and the short-run shuttles between cities, will boost sales of a dozen or more industries, add to job totals and corporate profits.

Capital expenditures for the projected rapid transit systems and equipment could come to $12 billion in the next 10 years.

The projects run all the way from extensions and speedups of more conventional transit systems—example: Cleveland is linking its business district with the airport — to test such projects as a computerized aerial electric system in Pittsburgh and jet propelled railroad engines tested in Ohio for high speed shuttles between eastern population centers.

Railroad equipment producers stand to be big gainers from the 34 projects now in varying stages from planning to actual construction.

Among the many companies now building or designing components for the rapid-transit systems are: United Aircraft Pullman, U.S. Steel, Alcoa, Westinghouse, General American Transportation, and General Electric.

The federal government has authorized $90 million to study a rapid transit system linking Boston, New York and Washington. Over the long range this could multiply to several billion in expenditures.

The San Francisco Bay area has a 75-mile subway and transit network under way with costs around $1 billion. Other rail commuter projects include Boston, Washington, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Atlanta, and Cleveland. Planning is under way in Chicago, Detroit and New York. The Pennsylvania Railroad will test a high speed track linking Trenton and New Brunswick, N.J. The New York Central is talking of high-speed shuttle expresses between big population centers to replace long-run passenger service.

Why all the hurry just now? Well, statisticians say that within five years three-fourths of the entire U.S. population will be living in urban areas and the number of vehicles on the public roads and streets will soar to more than 100 million.

With the population growing rapidly, all those people have to be moved from here to there—and maybe new and far-out rapid transit systems are the answer.

Chiropractic for Rheumatism

DR. HERMAN H. SHUTTLEWORTH
Chiropractor

You may be one of 7,000,000 people in the United States suffering with rheumatism. According to statisticians this so-called disease is responsible for more lost work days than any other chronic disability except nervous and mental disorders.

Rheumatism includes such conditions as lumbago, stiff neck, shoulder pains, bursitis and many other muscular aches and pains of the body.

We find that rheumatism results from misaligned vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on the delicate nerve fibers of the spinal cord. This interferes with the vital nerve energy from the brain which powers every organ and cell in the entire body.

When compressed nerves choke off life-energy to our purification system, our kidneys, liver and skin cells cannot dispose of waste products properly. This waste collects in the muscles and joints of the body causing a toxic condition which is very irritating to muscle fibers. This slows down muscular activity.

Tension builds up, muscles become inactive and begin to ache, restricting movement, causing great pain if forced to move.

Only your chiropractor can correct misalignments in the spine and set free Nature's life-energy, which is the only healing force of the body; muscles will become active again and pain will disappear, such as the following case will illustrate.

For several years a 34-year-old dairy farmer suffered what had been previously diagnosed as "sciatic rheumatism" and lumbago. Unable to work, a neighboring farmer who had regained his own health through chiropractic took him to a chiropractor. He complained of being tired and sluggish all the time, had been a victim of asthma since age 12, and also suffered constipation, frequent indigestion, gas, bloating and pains under his heart.

Spinal analysis and x-rays disclosed an old spinal injury causing nerve interferences responsible for his many miserable aches and pains. Corrective adjustments properly balanced his spine removing the disturbing nerve pressures and Nature went to work. Within a month or so he was free of all pains and his Natural pep and energy returned as normal health was restored.

If you are among the sick and suffering, the chiropractic profession advises spinal examination by your chiropractor.

Have chiropractic check-ups regularly.

Railroad equipment producers stand to be big gainers from the 34 projects now in varying stages from planning to actual construction.

Among the many companies now building or designing components for the rapid-transit systems are: United Aircraft Pullman, U.S. Steel, Alcoa, Westinghouse, General American Transportation, and General Electric.

The federal government has authorized $90 million to study a rapid transit system linking Boston, New York and Washington. Over the long range this could multiply to several billion in expenditures.

The San Francisco Bay area has a 75-mile subway and transit network under way with costs around $1 billion. Other rail commuter projects include Boston, Washington, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Atlanta, and Cleveland. Planning is under way in Chicago, Detroit and New York. The Pennsylvania Railroad will test a high speed track linking Trenton and New Brunswick, N.J. The New York Central is talking of high-speed shuttle expresses between big population centers to replace long-run passenger service.

Why all the hurry just now? Well, statisticians say that within five years three-fourths of the entire U.S. population will be living in urban areas and the number of vehicles on the public roads and streets will soar to more than 100 million.

With the population growing rapidly, all those people have to be moved from here to there—and maybe new and far-out rapid transit systems are the answer.

Your Health Through Chiropractic
Chiropractic for Rheumatism
DR. HERMAN H. SHUTTLEWORTH
Chiropractor

You may be one of 7,000,000 people in the United States suffering with rheumatism. According to statistics this so-called disease is responsible for more lost work days than any other chronic disability except nervous and mental disorders. Rheumatism includes such conditions as lumbago, stiff neck, shoulder pains, bursitis and many other muscular aches and pains of the body. We find that rheumatism results from misaligned vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on the delicate nerve fibers of the spinal cord. This interferes with the vital nerve energy from the brain which powers every organ and cell in the entire body. When compressed nerves choke off life-energy to our purification system, our kidneys, liver and skin cells cannot dispose of waste products properly. This waste collects in the muscles and joints of the body causing a toxic condition which is very irritating to muscle fibers. This slows down muscular activity. Tension builds up, muscles become inactive and begin to ache, restricting movement, causing great pain if forced to move. Only your chiropractor can correct misalignments in the spine and set free Nature's life-energy, which is the only healing force of the body; muscles will become active again and pain will disappear, such as the following case will illustrate. For several years a 34-year-old dairy farmer suffered what had been previously diagnosed as "sciatic rheumatism" and lumbago. Unable to work, a neighboring farmer who had regained his own health through chiropractic took him to a chiropractor. He complained of being tired and sluggish all the time, had been a victim of asthma since age 12, and also suffered constipation, frequent indigestion, gas, bloating and pains under his heart. Spinal analysis and x-rays disclosed an old spinal injury causing nerve interferences responsible for his many miserable aches and pains. Corrective adjustments properly balanced his spine removing the disturbing nerve pressures and Nature went to work. Within a month or so he was free of all pains and his natural pep and energy returned as normal health was restored. If you are among the sick and suffering, the chiropractic profession advises spinal examination by your chiropractor. Have chiropractic check-ups regularly. Presented in the public interest for health through chiropractic.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "You're already prejudiced without one word of evidence against Speck brought forth," Louisville attorney John T. Ballantine told the delegates to the National Association of Legal Secretaries last week.

"That's exactly what the press and bar are trying to avoid," he added.

Two-thirds of the 400 delegates, meeting in Louisville, had raised their hand when Ballantine asked how many thought Richard Speck, indicted in the slaying of eight student nurses in Chicago, should be sentenced to at least 10 years in prison.

The rest, the Louisville Courier-Journal reported, had raised their hands when he asked how many thought Speck should be committed to a mental institution on the grounds of insanity.

The incident points up the difficulty of assuring the accused in a widely publicized criminal case a fair trial.

What makes the Speck case particularly significant is that it follows two historic Supreme Court decisions.

In one, the court cited "prejudicial news accounts" in ruling that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard did not get a fair trial in the bludgeon slaying of his first wife.

In the other, the court imposed a series of restrictions on police questioning of suspects, including the rule that he suspect must be told of his right to remain silent and to have a lawyer at his side.

As a result, Chicago authorities have been reading very carefully in their dealings with the 24-year-old seaman and with the press. Speck has been secluded from reporters and even the state's attorney's office has been careful not to talk to him.

Newsmen were told to leave the corridors of the hospital as soon as Speck's identity was pinned down. The Supreme Court decision on police questioning had put new limits on the use of confessions at trials, and as far as is known no effort has been made to draw a confession from Speck.

However, Police Sup. O. W. Wilson's saemen a a news conference 15 hours before Speck's capture that "as far as I'm concerned, there is no question he's the murderer" has brought criticism.

Harvard law professors Paul A. Freund, Mark DeWolfe Howe and Albert M. Sacks said Wilson had prejudged the case. Warren D. Wolfson, a criminal attorney who figured in the landmark Escobedo confession case, said the publicity would hinder Speck's chances for a fair trial.

After Speck's arrest, Wilson defended himself. Asked at a news conference if he should have called Speck the murderer, Wilson replied: "He is. He is."

"The information about Speck that I gave the Chicago public was information that we determined they should have had. This was our justification for announcing that Speck was the killer.

"I saw no reason for concealing those facts from the public."

Northwestern University law Professor Fred Inbau said Wilson not only was within bounds in making the statement but "was under a duty and obligation."

"Keep in mind that this fellow isn't going to be tried next week," Inbau, a member of the Chicago Crime Commission, said last week. "What the Police Department said is not going to prejudice his rights."

More typical of the walking-on-eggs approach of authorities in the Speck case was the response of John Stamos, first assistant state's attorney, when newsmen asked if the state would try to send Speck to the electric chair.

Said Stamos: "No comment."

Few White House Brides Enjoy Secret Honeymoon

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House brides have had their difficulties getting off to private honeymoon spots. Now Luci Johnson, 19, hopes she can make it.

The U.S. State Department gallantly helped Dutch Princess Beatrix launch her honeymoon in secret last spring by lending her and husband, Prince Claus, an American Air Force plane.

A White House spokesman said it was "possible, but not probable," that President Johnson might do the same for his daughter.

Luci is worrying, like other White House brides before her, about getting out of the spotlight after a widely publicized wedding.

She says her honeymoon will last a week or 10 days. Luci is expected to be a bridesmaid at a Texas wedding just two weeks after her own Aug. 6 marriage.

White House records give Luci an idea of the problems of her predecessors.

Grover Cleveland, the only president married in the White House, probably had the worst time of it when he honeymooned with his bride, Frances Folsom, just 21, in June, 1886.

They were pursued by reporters and photographers to what they thought would be a secluded honeymoon cottage in Deer Park, Md.

Their seclusion vanished further "with the rush of summer visitors to Deer Park and the arrival of a church convention."

Thousands crowded around the White House for the wedding 60 years ago of President Theodore Roosevelt's daughter, Alice, to an Ohio congressman, Nicholas Longworth.

The newlyweds tried an elaborate rush to fool the crowds and the press, but failed.

They had their honeymoon at Friendship Lodge, the nearby country place of John R. McLean, the wealthy owner of The Washington Post.

Some seven years later Jessie Wilson, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson, and her new husband, Frank B. Sayre, managed to make a quiet getaway from the south entrance in "an unpretentious car," eluding reporters and well-wishers. They honeymooned in Europe.

But Jessie's sister Eleanor Wilson, was quickly located when she and her husband, Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, tried to give reporters some false scents after their May 7, 1914, marriage.

By the next day reporters had tracked them to the summer White House, Harlakende, in Cornish, N.H.

Grind the last of that baked ham for a sandwich filling. Use either mayonnaise or sour cream with which to moisten the ham. If mayonnaise is used season with pickle relish; if sour cream is used, you may want to season with prepared horseradish or prepared mustard.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Strange Ambition for Girl

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school senior and I plan to become a nurse. I also have another ambition. I want to marry a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Please don't laugh at me, Abby, I am serious.

I am not pretty, but I do have plenty of friends and I've been told I have a good personality. I've dated guys from school, but they don't satisfy this feeling I have. I have read everything about the R. C. M. P. and am more determined than ever to marry one. How can I meet one?

FROM VIRGINIA
DEAR FROM: You could take a trip to Canada and get "lost" in the Rockies, there is always a chance that the bloodhounds might find you first. Get your R. N., then apply for a job in Canada. And in the meantime, keep repeating the motto of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. "We always get our man." And maybe you'll get yours. Lotsa luck.

DEAR ABBY: Harry is somewhere in his late sixties and has never been married. I am a widow, 59. We started seeing each other about a year ago and agreed to be just friends and nothing more. We enjoyed each other's companionship immensely for a while, then he broke his promise and got romantic. I put him in his place and we agreed once more to be only friends.

Now Harry wants me to accept a diamond. He says he is not pressing for marriage, but he would like for me to wear his ring. I would like to accept it, but I don't want to commit myself to marriage. What do you think he has in mind?

WATCHING MY STEP
DEAR WATCHING: He could be only trying to cut off your circulation. No matter what he says, his tone has a wedding ring to it.

DEAR ABBY: When I read "Insulted's" letter, complaining because she had received a garbage pail from her aunt and uncle for a wedding present, it brought back memories. Years ago, an English professor was reading a play in which the author had attempted to depict poverty, filth, and squalor against a background of garbage cans, clotheslines, etc. The professor became enraged.

"What's wrong with garbage cans?" he wanted to know. "In India there are no garbage cans because there is no garbage. And there's no garbage because there's no food! Garbage cans are an indication of plenty," he said. "A mark of an affluent civilization of which any nation may well be proud!" I have never forgotten those words. It also instilled in me a new respect for garbage cans.

Cleveland Race Scene Is Quiet

Last of Guard Is Withdrawn

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Hough area on Cleveland's East Side remained quiet Sunday night after the withdrawal of the last contingent of Ohio National Guardsmen who were sent in July 19 to control an outbreak of rioting in the Negro slum.

The last contingent of about 800 guardsmen were released late Sunday morning. Most of them were Greater Clevelanders, members of the 1st Squadron, 107th Armored Cavalry Regiment.

The guardsmen were given a tribute by Mayor Ralph S. Locher, who issued a statement saying the National Guard "has the respect and gratitude of all Clevelanders."

"These men, at great personal sacrifice," the statement continued, "responded to the call of the governor and effectively and efficiently backed up the Cleveland policemen and firemen, who likewise served with valor and efficiency."

The mayor also named Ralph M. Besse, president of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., to head a bi-racial community group being organized to help solve problems which contributed to the outbreak of rioting and firebombing on the East Side.

"The entire Greater Cleveland community is involved in finding ways and means of preventing a recurrence of the recent riots in Hough," said the mayor in announcing the appointment.

The mayor said the problems can't be solved "at one time or by one administration. All of us, in and out of the city government agree and demand that maximum community efforts must be brought to bear on their solution and that this must be accomplished without delay."

Meanwhile, a grand jury probe into causes of the rioting continues today. Mayor Locher is scheduled to testify before the jury, along with police officials.

Thousands of Tourists Flock to Hitler Retreat

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (AP) — "Beware of snakes" warn the red letters crudely painted on a broken block of concrete.

At a souvenir stand, a guide explains to a group of English high school students: "It was bombed by the Allies in 1945, and seven years later the ruins of Hitler's home were blown up." The youths give him a disappointed look.

The season is in full swing at Obersalzberg, once the fortress-like Alpine residence of the Nazi Fuehrer and for the past two decades Germany's largest unadvertised tourist attraction. In all the official posters and travel folders luring tourists to Germany there is no mention of this Nazi mountain estate with its deep underground air-raid bunkers branching out for a mile and a half.

Yet, hundreds of thousands flock every year to the Alpine range where Hitler felt at home. "They come from all parts of the world, both West and East," reports Laszlo Balog, who has been showing tourists around for the past 14 years. "The vast majority of foreign tourists are Americans."

The bunkers, once wood-paneled and laid out with expensive rugs, are one of the two main tourist magnets on the thousand-acre Nazi compound.

The other is the "Eagle's Nest," a onetime Hitler studio topping the 6,016-foot Kehlstein peak that overlooks the Obersalzberg range. Kehlsteinhaus, as it is called now, can be reached only by an elevator that travels 404 feet up a vertical shaft drilled through solid rock. The bottom of the shaft is connected with the outside by a tunnel 427 feet long.

The "Eagle's Nest" is now a restaurant that can handle up to 1,000 guests at a time during the May-October summer season. Last year, 180,000 people paid $2 each to ride up.

Hitler had discovered the area for himself when he hid from police in a mountain lodge after the abortive 1923 Munich putsch. He bought a small villa there years before seizing power. Later annexes made it the spacious "Berghof," Hitler's private residence nestled on a wide slope well below the famous "Eagle's Nest."

Nazi investments on Obersalzberg up to the end of the war have been estimated at about $50 million. Allied bombs, postwar pillaging and intentional demolition flattened most of the buildings. Bomb holes filled with water and some eventually were stocked with fish.

LSD 'Trip' Proves Fatal For Youth

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—An LSD "trip" with three friends ended with a fatal three-story fall for a Berkeley youth Sunday.

Friends of Vernon L. Cox, 20, occasional University of California student and son of a retired Air Force officer, told police he jumped from a window some four hours after taking the hallucinatory drug LSD for the first time.

Kenneth D. Tavalin, 19, one of the witnesses to Cox's behavior under the influence of the drug, said, "Vernon was in touch with reality one minute and the next minute he lost control. We restrained him several times from leaving the apartment."

Other witnesses were Ronald E. Ryer, 23, and Francis D. Turner, 30. Both lived in the Telegraph Avenue building from which the youth jumped, across the street from the one in which he lived.

They said Cox repeatedly insisted he was going to take a trip to Europe.

When they prevented him from leaving the apartment for the last time, they told police, Cox ran into a bedroom and jumped out the window.

Police said no arrests were made.

Walter Evans, 62, Route 3, fell and injured his right finger at work.

George Tester, 28, Route 4, was treated when he stepped on a piece of glass and injured his foot.

Bennie Jones, 19 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Jones, Route 2, received treatment when he fell and injured his forehead.

Samuel Baldwin, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baldwin, Route 3, was treated when he ran a nail in his left heel at home.

Joe Senneken, 18, Route 2, Williamsport, climbed over a fence and fell and received injuries when he fell against a log.

Nigerian Chief Said Captive

Rebels Continue To Negotiate

LONDON (AP)—The chief of Nigeria's military junta, Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, was reported still in rebel hands today, but negotiations continued between his government and the insurgents.

This word of Ironsi came in diplomatic reports to London. British officials said they had received no news of the Nigerian army chief who was put in power by a bloody coup six months ago.

"He seems to be out of the picture," said a spokesman for the Commonwealth Relations Office.

Earlier reports said Ironsi was being held in Ibadan, in western Nigeria.

There were no reports of new fighting, but the rebels reportedly held the international air ports at Kano, in northern Nigeria, and near Lagos, the capital.

Air service to Nigeria was halted Friday after the uprising by army units in Ikeja, around Lagos airport; in Abeokuta, 80 miles north of the capital, and in Ibadan.

Lagos airport remained closed, but British Overseas Airways Corp. announced it was resuming flights to Kano.

"Our representatives in Nigeria report Kano is quiet and its airport usable," a BOAC spokesman said Sunday. "We have 130 passengers in Kano waiting to come back."

A BOAC jetliner arrived in London Sunday with a load of passengers from Lagos, most of them Britons coming on home leave. The jet's captain said the rebels allowed him to fly the passengers out after he agreed to fly 96 wives and children to the insurgents to Kano.

Kerr said the rebels were cooperative and offered to pay BOAC for transporting their families.

Negotiations between the junta and the rebels began Saturday. They reportedly involve representatives of Nigeria's three principal tribes — the Ibo in the east, Yoruba in the west and Hausa in the north.

The Hausa, more than half of Nigeria's 55 million people, have been disgruntled ever since the army overthrew the federation government, which the Hausa dominated.

Ironsi is an Ibo and although he had pledged nontribal government, most of his advisers are Ibos.

Ohio Raw Milk Prices Due To Increase

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Most Ohio dairy farmers raise raw milk prices today and the housewife who feels the pinch of that boost in her budget can blame complex economic factors ranging from alfalfa weevils to high employment.

The price went up, the farmers say, because milk is in short supply. The ranks of dairy farmers are dwindling and many dairy cows have been sold to take advantage of a strong beef market.

An even more important factor, they say, is the rising cost of dairy farm production and farm labor. Booming employment in the cities is draining manpower from the fields to the factories. Feed costs rose this year because weevils attacked alfalfa fields.

As for these reasons, the member cooperatives of the Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation — covering northern and central Ohio — are asking processors to pay 30 to 70 cents more for each 100 pounds of milk bottled from Aug. 1 through March 31, 1967.

In the Columbus market, processors will pay $5.80 per hundredweight of Class I milk. In the northwest Ohio market (Toledo, Lima and Mansfield) the price will be $5.91. In the Youngstown-Warren and northeast Ohio markets, the price will be $6.10.

The new prices probably will be reflected in higher consumer prices at supermarkets and stores which get their milk from the four affected markets.

So far, no one is saying just how much the store price of milk will rise, but no one is denying that an increase is on the way. Without an increase, the new prices would shave processors' profits by at least a half cent a quart.

"There are too many uncertainties to estimate what retail increase goes into effect," says E. A. Graber, executive vice president of the Ohio Dairy Products Association. "We just don't have all the figures yet."

The dairy farmers' demands for more money shouldn't affect the price of manufactured dairy products such as butter, ice cream and cottage cheese.

If milk is used for manufacturing purposes, as about 30 percent of Ohio milk is, it becomes Class II milk and draws producer prices ranging up to about $4 per hundred pounds.

In each of Ohio's eight federal order markets dairy farmers receive a weighted average price depending on how much of their milk processors use for Class I or Class II products.

Most Class I milk in Ohio is sold at supermarkets in half-gallon paper packages. Since January, the price for this type of milk has risen two to three cents to its present range of 42 to 46 cents.

For dairy farmers, rice increases have come almost monthly since spring as seasonal demands boosted the federal market minimum payment levels.

The August increase is the first which has actually been set by the farmers themselves.

The May issue of "The Ohio Farmer" magazine cited statistics which supported the dairy farmers' claims that the state's milk market is getting tighter.

Ohio milk production, the magazine reported, has been slowly decreasing for 11 years. It reached an all-time high of 5,738 million pounds in 1955, but had fallen nearly 10 percent to 5,186 million by 1965.

Since 1956, the magazine said, the number of Grade A milk producers fell from 26,000 to 14,478. Grade producers declined from 40,000 to 13,007 in the same period.

The magazine said the number of milk cows in the state fell from 692,000 in 1959 to 568,000 in 1965.

Per capita milk consumption, the magazine said, has remained at a relatively stable 312 pounds per year for the last five years.

As a result, the magazine found, market demands for milk have increased as the supply slowly decreased.

Coke Jets Win, Hold Lead in LL

The Coca Cola Jets downed American Legion, 19-7, Saturday morning to hold on to first place in the majors division of the Little League.

In another game, Purina upset Bingham Drugs, 14-4. Both games were originally scheduled last Thursday but were rained out.

The Jets, with only one game remaining, can do no worse than a first place deadlock in the majors. Saturday's win gives them an 11-3 record. The second place Herald Hawks have a 10-4 mark for the season.

Don Valentine was the winning pitcher for the Jets. He walked six and struck out two in two innings. He was relieved by Mike Herron who pitched the last four frames. They gave up a total of five hits.

BUCKY METCALF was the losing pitcher. He issued seven bases on balls, fanned seven and was touched for 17 hits.

Leading the Jets' hit parade was Gregg Heiskell with a triple, two doubles and a single. Valentine cracked a three-base blow, a two-bagger and two singles.

Steve Davis collected a triple, double and single. Artie Foll hit a triple and a double and Jimmy Ramey tagged a homerun. All the Legion hits were singles.

Jeff Harr was the winning hurler for the Purina nine. He walked seven, fanned seven and allowed six hits. Greg Hoskins went the route for the losers, walking six, fanning 11 and allowing six hits.

Harr and Stuart Moore doubled for Purina while Hoskins doubled for the Drugsters.

Stars Win By Forfeit

The Circleville Pony League All-Stars advanced a rung in the Westfall Tournament at Westfall High School Sunday when their opponents, Darbydale, failed to appear for a game.

Saturday the local all stars dropped the first half of a doubleheader, 7-5, to the St. Clair War Hawks but came back to win the second, 8-6.

Leatherwood Is Top Flight Winner at Lansdowne Links

Ron Leatherwood won the championship flight in the Challenge Golf Tournament which ended Sunday at Upper Lansdowne Golf Links. Mark Leatherwood, a brother finished second.

The winner of A Flight was E. J. (Red) Mallory. Russ Gregg was second and Dick Peters third. Van Gregg won B Flight with Al Axe placing second. John Evans topped C flight golfers while Tom Waggoner was second.

Winning the ladies flight was Sharon Pontious. Ann Leatherwood was second.

The challenge event was a new and highly successful tournament added to Lansdowne's competitive list this year.

EACH member golfer was placed in a flight, according to handicap, at the beginning of the season.

From the time the event started in early April until its end yesterday, members were allowed to challenge the golfer immediately ahead of them in the flight, the golfer two ahead, or if they were at the top of a flight, the golfer at the bottom of the next flight.

If the golfer challenged could or would not accept the challenge, he lost by forfeit.

According to Don Collins, owner of the course, most of the play was among top members of each flight.

The golfer he tabbed as the "most improved" and the one who probably played more matches and benefitted most from the event although he did not emerge as a flight winner, was Joe Leatherwood.

The 1966 Teays Valley graduate started the season playing in C flight. He ended as a contender in A flight.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The Zanesville Nationals won the state Babe Ruth League baseball Championship Sunday with a 14-1 victory over the hometown Americans, and advanced to regional competition this weekend at Newark.

Death Eliminated Biggest Winner in Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — The fourth annual $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament this week will be without its biggest money winner.

Tony Lema, who won a total of $41,550 with one first place finish and two seconds in the three previous tournaments, had entered this year's event but was killed last Sunday in a plane crash at Lansing, Ill. The crash also took the lives of his wife, Betty, and two other persons.

The 72-hole tournament will get under way Thursday at the par 36-35-71, 6,777-yard Lakewood Country Club course, which will be hosting its first big time event.

Dan Sikes, last year's winner, will defend his title against a field that is scheduled to include the winners of this year's four major tournaments—Al Geiber-ger, who won the PGA championship at Akron last weekend; Jack Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and British Open, and Bill Casper, the U.S. Open champion.

Geiberger tied the course record with an opening round 64 in the 1964 Cleveland Open at Highland Park, but finished in a tie for 15th, eight strokes behind Lema's winning score.

Others in the field of approximately 144 professionals and amateurs will include Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, Phil Rodgers, Bert Yancey, all winners of at least two tournaments this year; Bobby Nichols, Julius Boros, Ken Venturi, Gary Player and Dave Marr, the 1965 PGA champion, Palmer lost to Lema in a playoff two years ago.

After the second round Friday, the field will be cut to the top 70 and ties, who will battle for the first prize of $20,000. Second place will be worth $12,000, with $7,500 going for third.

The last four holes of the final round Sunday will be televised nationally by Sports Network, Inc., from 5 to 6 p. m. E.D.T.

Ed Richardson, defensive halfback from Philadelphia, is the highest man on Penn State's 1966 football team. He's a 160-pound sophomore.

Tim Brown Looks Big for Eagle '11'

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Timmy Brown is Mr. Big of the Philadelphia Eagles, a team with a solid scoring punch but a flabby defense.

While the Eagles were scoring 363 points last season and equalling Cleveland's production, the defense was busy giving away 359 points. Consequently, the final won-lost record was 5-9 and a fifth-place tie in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League.

Aware of his need, Coach Joe Kuharich drafted and signed a pair of defensive ends — Randy Beisler of Indiana and Gary Pettigrew of Stanford — as his first two picks. Unfortunately for the Eagles, Beisler has been busy with the College All-Star squad at Chicago.

Oriole Star Claims Team Wins Pennant

Manager Bauer Not as Sure as Brooks Robinson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Brooks Robinson has given Hank Bauer a birthday present — the American League pennant.

"We've got it won," Baltimore's stellar third baseman said Sunday after the league-leading Orioles maintained their gapping margin over second-place Detroit by blanking the Minnesota Twins 4-0. "I don't see any club good enough to beat us in the American League."

Bauer, however, isn't ready to open the pennant package — yet.

"We still have 58 games to play," said the Orioles manager, who celebrated his 44th birthday with a 13-length bulge over the Tigers. "I've seen teams lose the pennant with the same big lead we have today." He conceded that "it's one of the better birthdays I've had. But I'd like a few more like this. And the pennant too; I'll take that."

While rookie Eddie Watt and reliever Eddie Fisher combined for a five-hitter against the Twins, Detroit swept a doubleheader from Kansas City 5-4 and 7-1, ruining a brilliant performance by Jim Nash, the Athletics' unbeaten, 21-year-old right-hander, in the opener. Nash, going for his fifth victory this month since being called up from the Athletics' Mobile farm club in the Southern League, allowed only one hit — a two-run homer by Norm Cash — over the first eight innings but was lifted by Manager Alvin Dark in the ninth after walking leadoff man Don Wert on four pitches and throwing one ball to Gates Brown.

The Tigers, trailing 4-2 at that point, rallied for three runs against two relief pitchers, with Jerry Lumpe's single driving in the winner.

Elsewhere Sunday, the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees twice, 4-1 and 5-0; Cleveland edged California 3-2, and Boston downed Washington 5-2.

Los Angeles climbed into first place in the National League with a 6-4 victory over St. Louis while Philadelphia swept Pittsburgh 8-1 and 6-5 in 10 innings, San Francisco nipped Atlanta 4-3, New York shaded Chicago 2-1 and Houston split with Cincinnati, winning 7-0 before losing 10-6.

The Orioles clipped Jim Kaat for the only run they needed on second-inning singles by Brooks Robinson, Paul Blair and rookie catcher Larry Taney.

Joe Grzenda, who relieved Nash in the Tigers' A's opener, walked Brown and gave up a hunt single to Cash, loading the bases. Jack Aker then came on and hit Al Kaline with a pitch, forcing in a run. Brown scored the tying run on a force play at second and Lumpe singled past a drawn-in infield, breaking the deadlock.

Mickey Stanley smacked a two-run triple off loser Gil Blanco in the first inning of the nightcap and Willie Horton hit a two-run homer in the ninth as the Tigers breezed behind the six-hit pitching of Earl Wilson.

Kuharich, starting the third year of his 15-year contract as coach and general manager, is optimistic about the outlook.

"With Jim Brown out, our division is a vast unknown," said Kuharich. "We have as good a chance as any if we can improve on last year."

"Our defense is not as weak as people think. Last year, we didn't get enough pressure from our front four and we did not get good linebacking. Maxie Baughan (traded to Los Angeles) and Mike Morgan were in and out. We would stop a team on first and 10, second and 10 and then give up the first down. With our new men, I think we have a chance for more unity and consistency."

Kuharich traded away two of his defensive regulars after last season. Baughan, a veteran linebacker, and Irv Cross, a top-flight defensive back, were shipped to the Rams. Claude

Crabb, another defensive back, also went to the Rams.

In return for Baughan and Cross, the Eagles got defensive back Aaron Martin, flanker Willie Brown, linebacker Fred Brown and defensive tackle Frank Molden from the Rams. Kuharich likes all four.

Molden, 6-foot-5, 285, originally was a Pittsburgh Steeler. Brown may force Morgan from the left linebacker job and Martin has fitted into the picture as a regular corner back.

The Eagles' offense came alive last year and ranked second among the 14 clubs in the NFL. Despite an injured right knee that necessitated an operation in January, Norm Snead threw 15 touchdown passes and gained 2,346 yards. He is healthy now, backed by King Hill and Jack Concannon.

Timmy Brown, who will crack the 10,000-yard club in total yardage this season, led the Eagles in rushing with 861 yards and also caught 50 passes for 682 yards.

Pete Retzlaff, veteran all-league tight end who caught 66 passes for 1,190 yards and 10 TDs last year, is back and ready for his 11th season. Split end Ray Poage and flanker Ron Goodwin are the other top receivers, although Snead throws a great deal to Brown and full-back Earl Gros. Willie Brown, used as flanker and running back at Los Angeles, should help. Ben Hawkins, No. 3 draft pick from Arizona State, will be fitted in when he returns from the All-Star game.

Timmy Brown at halfback and a three-man punch at full with Earl Gros, who is recovering from minor foot surgery, Tom Woodeshick and Israel Lang are the ground game. All-league tackle Bob Brown has built himself up to the 300-pound mark by weight lifting and is ready to do the job blocking. Lane Howell or Ray Rissmiller, a 1965 rookie who was out all year with injuries, will team with Brown. Jim Skaggs and Ed Blaine at guards and Jim Ringo a center complete the offensive line.

Sam Baker, still kicking strong at 33, will do the place kicking and punting.

Week of Crises Two Years Ago Marked As Turning Point of Viet Nam Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just two years ago Tuesday there began a week of crisis that marked a turning point in the Viet Nam war.

The setting: the Gulf of Tonkin, a long, rather shallow arm of the South China Sea, curving like a sea horse along the North and South Vietnamese coasts.

In that fateful week actually eight days:

—North Viet Nam challenged the United States openly for the first time, attacking U.S. warships.

—The United States retaliated with its first attack on Communist country since Korea — a carefully defined bombardment of North Vietnamese patrol boats and their shore bases.

—Congress gave formal, almost unanimous support to President Johnson, who authorized the retaliation. The support was in the form of a resolution Johnson has cited ever since as a legal basis for U.S. operations in the war.

Before the week ended, Johnson was telling the world the story of military confrontation and response in simple fashion:

"On Aug. 2 the United States destroyer Maddox was attacked on the high seas in the Gulf of Tonkin by hostile vessels of the government of North Viet Nam.

"On Aug. 4, that attack was repeated in those same waters against two United States destroyers. The attacks were unprovoked. The attacks have been answered."

That answer was the U.S. strike at North Vietnamese bases — a strike that was a forerunner to the expanded air war on the Communist country right up to the present.

But some questions remained unanswered.

Why would North Viet Nam, with its puny navy, try to tangle with the biggest sea power in the world? Were the attacks systematically planned? Were they really unprovoked?

Public information about the Gulf of Tonkin naval battle is based primarily on details provided at the time by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

"I can't explain them," the defense chief said. "They were unprovoked."

But as recently as a few weeks ago, Sen. Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo., wasn't sure he had the full story. He asked for release of full details on Tonkin, including a chronological account of the torpedo boat-destroyer encounter.

Simpson was provided a secret transcript of Senate testimony by John T. McNaughton, assistant secretary of defense.

After studying the transcript, however, Simpson said he found so many deletions that many questions remained unanswered.

The Wyoming Republican said he was inclined to accept the administration's version of Tonkin although, "I will certainly acknowledge that utter candor is not a hallmark of this administration."

Here is the administration account of the gulf incident as supplied by McNamara that week in news conference and in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees:

The incidents began, McNamara said, when the USS Maddox, on a routine patrol in international waters of the gulf, was stalked for two hours Aug. 2, 1964, by three torpedo boats

Suddenly the PT boats closed at high speed. At 3:08 p.m., the Maddox was attacked; two of the PT boats closed to 5,000 yards and fired one torpedo each. The Maddox veered; the torpedoes passed 100 to 200 yards away.

As the Maddox fired at the enemy craft with her five-inch guns, the carrier Ticonderoga, in the same general area, directed four Crusader jets, already airborne, to the scene.

At 3:21 p.m., the Maddox scored a direct hit on one boat, which managed to drop a third torpedo that apparently failed to run. The jets damaged the other two boats with rockets and cannon fire.

Eight minutes later the battle subsided and the aircraft escorted the Maddox southward on its patrol course.

By now the word was flashed to Washington and in a crisis atmosphere in the hours that followed, President Johnson made public instructions issued to the Navy regarding future patrols and engagement with enemy craft.

The patrols were to continue on a doubled basis — two destroyers — provided with air power and assigned not only to attack but destroy any force that attacked them in international waters.

The warning apparently was ignored, if received by, North Viet Nam.

On Aug. 4 the Maddox, accompanied now by the USS Joy about 65 miles off North Viet Nam, reported radar contact with unidentified surface craft and three unidentified planes. The planes vanished, but an hour later both destroyers reported they were under continuous torpedo attacks — and firing back.

"Within the next hour," McNamara related, "the destroyers relayed messages stating that they had avoided a number of torpedoes, that they had been under repeated attack and that they had sunk two of the attacking craft."

By midnight, however, "even though many torpedoes had been fired at them," the destroyers suffered no hits or casualties, McNamara said. At 1:30 a.m. the naval fight was over.

With the commander in chief calling the shots, the United States launched a precise strike the next day against North Vietnamese PT and gunboats, their bases and support facilities.

It cost the United States two Navy planes. A third was hit but returned safely to its carrier. On Aug. 10, eight days after the initial attack, the Senate and House overwhelmingly passed a joint resolution supporting the President and authorizing him to "take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., angrily dissented, calling the resolution a "pre-dated declaration of war."

Some administration critics were pointedly noting that incidents have been used in the past as pretexts to wage war, and questioned whether the United States should move boldly on a new policy on the basis of two seemingly isolated encounters that left the U.S. Navy unscathed.

Could the first Communist attack have been a mistake?

"I don't know that they were premeditated," said Adm. R. B. Moore, commander of the 7th Fleet Task Force 77, who was at the scene. "That would be speculation." But the admiral added he did not think they were accidental.

Deputy Secretary of Defense

Cyrus Vance was telling newsmen at about the same time that the United States did not respond to the first attack "because we assumed that perhaps the attack was brought about by mistake."

Was there some provocation, by someone, which led to the Communist challenge?

Asst. Secretary of State William P. Bundy said the North Vietnamese claimed that South Viet Nam landed a guerrilla force on two Communist islands off North Viet Nam's coast July 31.

"However, the key point here is that even if such an attack took place, our destroyer had no part whatsoever in any such action, and was a very substantial distance away at the time, at least 60 miles away from the two islands in question, and steaming in another direction," Bundy said in a televised interview.

Now, in the aftermath of Tonkin, additional forces were ordered in as a precaution for whatever action Communist China or the Soviet Union might take in support of the Hanoi regime. Interceptors and fighter-bomber aircraft flew into Viet Nam, other aircraft into Thailand. An antisubmarine force was deployed in the South China Sea, and Army and Marine forces were alerted for movement.

Except for a September scare, in which apparently two high-speed craft threatened another destroyer patrol — there was no enemy fire — nothing happened.

Bus Inspections Slated Thursday

School bus inspections for Pickaway County is scheduled Thursday, it was announced today by Highway Patrol Sergeant J. W. Pribble and George D. McDowell, County Superintendent.

Sgt. Pribble and McDowell said schedules for the inspections have been established.

All buses in Pickaway County will be inspected in one day this year.

Private F. Sterz and Private J. P. McCourt of the Circleville Patrol Post have been assigned to conduct the inspections.

The inspecting Patrol officers recently attended a course of instruction at the Highway Patrol Academy in Columbus conducted by the Patrol and the State Department of Education to familiarize them with the requirements and standards for bus inspections.

Sgt. J. W. Pribble said the inspections this year would be rigid. "Ohio has an outstanding safety record in its school bus operation and we intend to do our part to maintain the fine record," he said.

Highway Patrol officers will again don coveralls for the inspection and examine each part of the more than 10,000 buses which may affect safety in their operation.

The items checked by the inspecting officers include: brakes, steering, wiring, exhaust systems, frames, emergency exits, tires, lights condition of seats and other safety equipment. They will also be checked for first aid kits and fire extinguishers.

Buses passing inspection will be indicated by a certificate affixed to the bus by the Patrol officer. Those not passing will not receive a sticker and will be ordered in for repairs or removed from service.

Sgt. Pribble and McDowell pointed out that inspections are being held early this year with most second inspections expected to be completed by September 1. The program is being streamlined so this may be accomplished.

The Sergeant said that every effort will be made to ascertain that the buses are entirely safe for the transportation of school children.

For the first time, buses this year will not display license plates but will carry a registration number in black numerals at least six inches high on both the front and rear of the vehicle. The number replaces the gratis license plates formerly issued. All buses are registered with the Highway Patrol and assigned the new numbers.

Maybe you don't take the Citizen-Journal or overlooked the article by Jim Bishop who has a regular column every day.

Mr. Bishop says: "The salesman and mechanics steal Seven Billion out of the Forty Billion Dollars you spend each year on cars." (The poor dealer was not included in this).

Now lets get the crooked dealer in this. Jim continues, "He gets $100.00 to get your car ready for delivery and does nothing to it. A week later he charges you $200.00 for repairs to the transmission. You can't pay cash for the car, it must be financed because he can get another $200.00 in kick back from the finance company. He forces you to buy three or four hundred dollars in extras you do not want. He and the mechanics charge you 17.5% more than you should pay."

Jim must live in New York City where it might be possible for some of these things to happen. It took me 43 years to find out what a crook I have been. In this period of time I can truthfully say I know of no Dealer who deserves these charges.

With all the profit the Dealers are supposed to have stolen from the public, I would like to know who got my share. The National average of dealer profit is about 2%. You figure out how much the dealer made after he traded for that over-priced Used Car.

There might be some things we could be charged with, but no more than any dealer of any product.

WHAT DO YOU THINK? Do you honestly believe you have had the kind of treatment that Jim Bishop writes about?
